

Dear Sirs, Having enjoyed electronics for 40 years or more, the new entry level amateur radio licence would be greatly appreciated by me. I have never been able to master the morse code, I know others also with the same problem. The theory involved in understanding radio is what makes it so interesting for me. Morse code seems more of a barrier between many people and amateur radio so we will all be hoping for some changes to bring many like me into amateur radio. Thank you very much. Dave Marchant White Lake, Mich.